

Ballaminers House

This is a classic early 19th century Cornish farmhouse and retains many fine features including slate floors and wooden shutters on the ground floor and fabulous views from the bedroom windows. It is also one of the most welcoming houses you are likely to encounter. From the freshly made tea and Cornish Fairing biscuits served on arrival, the perfect night's sleep in the comfortable bedrooms at the end of a day's sightseeing, and beautiful bathrooms complete with Duchy of Cornwall toiletries, you are guaranteed a wonderful stay.

Amanda has decorated and furnished the house with a fine eye for detail and has created a beautifully restful, luxurious atmosphere enhanced by the delicious breakfasts and dinners she prepares for her guests using locally sourced ingredients.

The glorious garden filled with native Cornish plants and shrubs and scented honeysuckle and jasmine surrounds the house and there is a walled patio and a table under a chestnut tree on the lawn where guests can dine when the weather is fine if they wish.

Your Hosts

Amanda and David are the perfect hosts. They love looking after their guests and know just what is needed for a perfect stay. David is an ex-restaurateur and former Wolsey Lodge host in Cornwall. He tells many entertaining stories whilst Amanda has a background in fine arts and is happy to point art lovers in the right direction. David, a keen golfer, is delighted to take guests with an interest in golf to St Enodoc and Trevose golf courses.

The Location

Ballaminers House is perfectly located for both north and south coasts of Cornwall with the Eden Project, Maritime Museum and the Lost Gardens of Heligan within easy reach. Superb restaurants in Padstow (Rick Stein's seafood restaurant) and Jamie Oliver's Fifteen at Watergate Bay among others are only minutes away. Renowned beaches, cliff walks and sailing and fishing abound.

Finding Us

From the Wadebridge direction reach Little Petherick, drive over hump bridge to a row of cottages the last being whitewashed Ball Cottage on a corner of an unmarked lane, turn left into this lane and bear right to Ballaminers House. Drive is to the left of the house.
