

Tremayne House

Tucked away down a forgotten Cornish lane close to Frenchman's Creek stands Tremayne, above fields which fall gently to meet the densely wooded banks of the Helford River. The overgrown smugglers' paths in Tremayne Woods are carpeted with bluebells in the Spring.

This much loved exquisitely decorated family home has a warm and informal atmosphere, with huge inviting sofas, log fires, fresh flowers and fabulous food. Relax and enjoy Juliet's vast collection of design, garden and cookery books in the comfort of the library with a Cornish cream tea. Alternatively, completely unwind in La Mouette (the featured suite) with its stunning sitting room opening onto a private sun-drenched balcony garden. Tremayne's long garden continues to delight guests, whilst the recently landscaped life garden includes another of Anthony's exciting new designs.

Your Hosts

Juliet is passionate about her garden and interior design, which is featured in books and magazines, and is delighted to share her decorating tips. Anthony, apart from being an environmental water engineer and designer of garden water features, is very happy to advise on the best places to visit and the excellent restaurants in the area. Leave refreshed and invigorated and full of inspiration.

The Location

Surrounded by Cornwall's glorious beaches and scenery, take easy drives to St. Ives, Falmouth's National Maritime Museum, the Eden Project or St. Michael's Mount. Experience the cliff top Minack Theatre, play golf at Mullion or discover the magnificent Valley Gardens of the Helford River. Even closer, are wonderful walks to Tremayne Quay, which Harry (the charismatic chocolate Labrador) will be delighted to show you!

Finding Us

From Helston towards the Lizard on A3083. Take B3293 for 1¼ miles turning off via Mawgan to St Martin. Just past the school on right, turn left at the green signed Mudgeon and continue to crossroads. Turn left and then first right after 200 yards. Tremayne House is at the end of the Lane between two large granite piers.
