Cook House

Cook House is situated in the historic Cumbrian village of Levens overlooking Morecambe Bay and the Kent estuary, which together form a dramatically changing backdrop to this most beautiful home. As its name implies, the house was formerly a cook house for weary travellers making their way across the valley. Charmingly typical of this beautiful area, Cook House is perfectly located for exploring the Southern lakes as well as a convenient stop off on the way to Scotland.

You'll be welcomed on arrival with afternoon tea in the conservatory, garden terrace or when the weather is inclement, beside a cosy fire in the drawing room. Lucy has made this house into a most comfortable home that is light and sunny and furnished with fine art, furniture and family photographs.

The bedroom is very comfortable and offers every luxury for guests, alongside a spacious modern bathroom. It overlooks a rose and box garden, which is just one part of the stunning gardens surrounding Cook House, all of which have been designed by Lucy.

Your Hosts

Lucy grew up in the nearby family home of Levens Hall which is now owned by her brother. Generations of talented family artists precede Lucy and she herself is a talented water-colourist, professional photographer and flower arranger and is locally recognised for her garden designing.

The Location

Levens is a pretty village just 4 miles from Kendal. Close by and open to the visitors is the Elizabethan family home of Levens Hall with its worldwide famous topiary garden. Sizergh Castle, Holker Hall and Leighton Hall are all close by. The damson blossom in the Lyth Valley in Spring is worth a visit, and of course the delights of the Lake District are on the doorstep.
