

WOLSEY LODGES

Ovington House

Sitting amidst five acres of garden and orchards you approach this Georgian country house through a charming courtyard. Many original features such as shutters, cornices and fireplaces enhance the first impressions and the welcoming beverages served on arrival give a taste of what is destined to be a wonderful stay. Comfortable sofas invite you to relax in the stylish sitting room and delicious breakfasts are taken in the elegant dining room.

The bedrooms, beautifully decorated to give an intimate and cosy feel, are furnished with antiques and have en suite bath or shower rooms, thoughtfully equipped with all the extras that make a stay more comfortable such as hairdryers, tea and coffee, televisions and luxury toiletries. Two of the bedrooms are south facing and have breathtaking views across the grounds and Tyne Valley.

A stroll around the landscaped garden or a visit to the horses in the field will allow you to take in the heady freshness of Northumberland air and enjoy the tranquility of your surroundings.

Your Hosts

Lynne is a delightful, friendly and welcoming host and goes out of her way to ensure her guests have a memorable stay in her home. She spent many years involved in the agricultural and eventing worlds with her family and now enjoys walking her two Labradors around the local area.

The Location

This is an area of amazing contrasts - from the Roman splendour of Hadrian's Wall to the bustling modern Metro Centre at Gateshead, taking in the beauty of Holy Island, Alnwick Castle and Gardens, Durham Cathedral and the North East Coastline on the way. History abounds in Newcastle's Historic Quayside, George Stephenson's birthplace and the Beamish Museum.
