

WOLSEY LODGES

Drybeck Hall

You will know what real country is like when you visit Drybeck Hall. Visitors are always amazed by the beauty and quietness of this listed Grade II* traditional stone farmhouse in the Upper Eden Valley - a sanctuary from the rigours of modern day living in which you are assured of the warmest welcome, the finest food and a spiritual tranquillity.

Once settled into comfortable bedrooms, both with far reaching views to the Yorkshire Dales, guests are offered tea in the pretty front garden or in the main sitting room. This imposing room has a beef baulk above the fireplace, which crackles with logs in winter. This cross-passage house has original exposed beams in every room.

Guest are welcome to use the adjoining tennis court, stretch their legs in the flower and vegetable garden up the hill behind the house, or simply wander off to absorb the beautiful landscape.

Your Hosts

Anthony's family has been associated with the Appleby area for 800 years; his famous ancestor, Lady Anne Clifford, defied Cromwell and restored Appleby Castle during the Commonwealth. Anthony is a Lawn and Real Tennis enthusiast and practitioner. Lulie is a qualified cook, and when not conjuring up absolutely exquisite food, enjoys riding her home-bred horses. They both enjoy their garden and playing bridge.

The Location

Drybeck Hall is perfectly situated for exploring the Yorkshire Dales and the Lake District. Appleby is well known for its Horse Fair in June. There are lots of excellent walks and a beautiful local 18 hole golf course with views of the Pennine Hills.
